

I've spent many afternoons with family, enjoying all that Toogood Pond has to offer.

The trail is perfect for walking and talking, as it's well-shaded by trees and lets you loop around the entire pond. My grandmother first introduced me to the trail at Toogood Pond and we've gone there to spend time together as well as to see the ducks, or to admire the changing leaves in the fall. The pond is also a beloved local skating spot in winter.

Toogood Pond and the forested area around it have provided me with many opportunities to get outside, get active, and to spend time with my family – no matter what the season!
